

Idaho Opens Three of Four Youth Behavioral Health Community Crisis Centers

Three Youth Behavioral Health Community Crisis Centers opened in Idaho in 2023 to serve communities in Idaho Falls, Twin Falls, and Boise. Another YBHCCC will also open in January in Nampa.

The centers provide a calm environment for youth aged 12-17 to de-escalate. This gives parents and/or guardians time to re-group during crisis situations. These centers help young people who are experiencing mental health or substance use challenges that greatly disrupt their lives and negatively impact their families.

The centers provide supports and services during the early stages of a mental health crisis before more intensive, costly, and restrictive interventions are required.

Services for youth are 100% voluntary and free of charge. Walk-ins are welcome. No referral is needed. Stabilize for up to 23 hours, 59 minutes. Doors are open 24/7.

* Law Enforcement may bring youth to the YBHCCCs

* Parents or guardians need to be available for consent to treat upon arrival

Idaho Youth Behavioral Health Community Crisis Centers

Rise Up Teen and Child Crisis Center of East Idaho

1140 Science Center Dr. Idaho Falls, ID 83403

208-826-0994

Please visit riseupyouthcrisiscenter.com

ProActive Youth and Family Support Center

264 Main Ave. South, Twin Falls ID 83301

208-969-9841

Please visit youthidaho.com

Pathways Youth Community Support Center

9196 E. Emerald, STE 100 Boise, ID 83704

1-866-527-4747

Western Idaho Youth Support Center

Nampa, ID

Opening January 2024

